

A New Chapter for Albatross

Over the past several years, our indoor golf centres have grown from a single concept into two thriving facilities supported by an incredible team and a loyal community of customers. We are grateful to everyone who has supported the business and helped shape what the centres have become today.

The company is currently completing a transition to a new ownership structure. While certain legal and financial documentation is still being finalized, the operational transition has already taken place and the facilities are now operating under a new ownership group. The transition reflects changes that have already taken place within the company's structure and responsibilities.

As part of that transition, Jocelyn D., who many customers already know as the General Manager responsible for the day-to-day operation of the facilities and the customer experience over the past several years, has become part of the ownership group and continues in that role.

Jeremy L. has also joined the ownership group and will oversee the technology, systems, and facility maintenance side of the business, ensuring the simulators, racing systems, and supporting infrastructure across both locations continue to operate at the highest level.

Although ownership of the business has changed, the day-to-day operation of the facilities continues to be handled by the same management team and staff that customers are already familiar with.

For customers, the experience remains exactly the same — the same staff, the same welcoming environment, and the same commitment to creating a great place to enjoy golf, racing simulators, and time with friends.

We are grateful for the incredible community that has grown around the facilities and look forward to welcoming you again soon.
